NEW YORK CITY.

The Wilkie Collins Dinner--The Financial Outlook--Billiards, etc.

New York, October 2.--A pleasant dinner was given to Wilkie Collins, the famous author, at the Century Club, last evening.

Sixty or seventy guests, mostly men of letters, journalists and artists, residents of New York, were present, including Park Godwin, Whitelaw Reid, James Parton, John Hay, Bret Harte, Thomas Nast, and others. Speeches were made by Collins, Nast and Godwin.

The Liberal Republican primary meetings held last night nominated delegates to the Liberal Republican State Convention at Elmira, October 8th.

The business of the up-town savings banks has steadily increased since the early part of this week. None of the officials anticipate a recurrence of the panic.

A large proportion of the deposits withdrawn during the excitement have been redeposited. Several of the savings banks have resumed payment of the amount on demand, being confident the excitement is at an end. Among those who have done so are the Citizens', Manhattan, and German Savings Banks.

The prospect in Wall street is brightening daily, and money is returning rapidly to the coffers of the larger banks. The demand of national and State banks for currency and discounts now receives prompt attention.

Foreign exchange is easier, and crops which were blocked up in the harbor are already making their way out. It is generally reported that a large number of railroad shares have been absorbed by legitimate investors at panic prices transferred to the names of owners and carried out of the street.

The great billiard contest for the championship of the world, this evening takes place at Tammany Hall between Garner and Daly.

The Evangelical Alliance will not meet to-day at Association Hall, as arranged, but to-morrow, at Steinway Hall. A social reception will be given to the delegates in the parlors of the Young Men's Christian Association.

Horace Clark's Estate.

New York, October 2.--It is reported that Horace F. Clark's estate, which owns a large amount of shares of Lake Shore stock, on which money has been loaned, obtained an injunction restraining their sale.

Bird, Gurnell & Co., brokers for Vanderbilt, have suspended. Horace Clark was special partner in this house before his death.

NEW YORK.

More Mystery in the Goodrich Murder Case.

BROOKLYN, October 2.--It is said that Lucille Meyers's last statement relative to the Goodrich murder implicates a person whose name has not hitherto been connected with the case. The District Attorney says if her story is true it will present one of the most remarkable phases of crime. He also says steps have been taken to arrest this person.

Democratic State Ticket.

UTICA, October 2.--The Democratic State Convention reassembled at 10 A. M. The following nominations were made: Deirdrich Willors, for Secretary of State; Asher P. Nichols, Comptroller; Judge Daniel Pratt, Attorney General; Thomas Raines, State Treasurer. The platform enunciates the Democratic doctrine of Jefferson: Equal and exact justice to all, civil supremacy over the military, etc. The granting of subsidies and bonding of towns and cities is condemned.

They denounce the salary grab and the President's signature to the bill; they denounce the bayonet rule in Louisiana, condemn the action of the Republicans in the late legislature, especially in the complicated and untwice charter given to New York City. They demand revenue reform of high duties on few articles, instead of low duties on many articles; they demand specie payment, and consider inflation as the cause of the late financial troubles; they hold out the right hand to farmers acting against monopolies; they declare that in the charge of the public they should be under the same law as the tax payers, collectors and private individuals, and their accounts subject to inspection; they recognize the Liberal Republicans as coadjutors and friends in the effort to procure a pure Government, etc.

WASHINGTON.

Kasson Out--The President Troubled, Etc., Etc.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.--There is authority for stating that the report of Mr. John A. Kasson, of Iowa, being a candidate for the Speakership in opposition to Mr. Blaine, is without foundation.

Prof. Hayden's surveying party is expected home next week.

Professor Hoyt, of Wisconsin, is spoken of as a probable successor to Watts, the Commissioner of Agriculture. Hoyt is said to be strongly backed by Matt. Carpenter.

It is positively asserted by the President's special friends that up to a very recent period he had not determined whom to appoint Chief Justice, and that he was a good deal perplexed about the matter.

NEW JERSEY.

The State Bank Deficit Made Good.

New Brunswick, October 2.--The deficit in the State Bank has been made up by several thousand dollars subscribed by the President, Directors and friends, being enough to absorb the bank's entire indebtedness and restore the original capital.

"Many Expressmen" unite in a communication to the News in regard to placing obstructions upon the Street Railway tracks, disclaiming any such action. They also disavow the rumor that the rogues who are said to have cut their harness, while the teams were standing in front of the Exposition building. They are right in saying "cutting harness" is equally as criminal as "placing obstructions," and condemn one as much as the other.

Garratt and Shaffer play a match game at Garratt's re-opening on Monday night, the last mentioned giving odds of 200 in a game of 1,500 points up, four ball caroms.

Buggy Overturned.

A jam this afternoon at the intersection of Washington and Illinois streets took place, in which a buggy driven by Mrs. Robert Smith, a street car, and J. A. Dickerson's bucket wagon, played the prominent parts. Mrs. Smith's buggy was overturned, and herself and her sister, Miss Grooms, and a little girl, the child of Betty Self, were thrown to the pavement, severely bruising the first named. The accident was doubtless unavoidable.

A New Feature in the Jacks Murder Case.

Something new in the criminal annals of the city was developed this forenoon by the Mayor sending to the Grand Jury, John A. Roberts, Lorenzo D. Kemp, George Weaver, and Charles Batchelor, who were arrested yesterday for complicity in the escape of Cope and Wilson, the murderers of Captain Jacks. They were arraigned under the law as "accessories after the fact" in a penitentiary offense, to which Kemp and Batchelor pleaded guilty and were committed. The other two waived examination and gave $2,000 surety for their appearance; W. H. Ryan going on the bond of Weaver, and C. P. Pettit and W. F. Reiser on that for Roberts.

The law has two classifications of this offense, however, involving as they do the degree of complicity. On the first holds the violator equally guilty with the principal, and the second makes it a penitentiary offense, to which Kemp and Batchelor pleaded guilty and were committed. The other two waived examination and gave $2,000 surety for their appearance; W. H. Ryan going on the bond of Weaver, and C. P. Pettit and W. F. Reiser on that for Roberts.

Dr. V. F. Hayden, the eminent chief of the foot of Pike's Peak, and will reside there permanently.

The continued heavy rains are doing immense damage to the cotton crop in the lower Rio Grande country. The ground in the lowlands is covered to a depth of several inches with water.

The defaulting cashier of the Hingham, Massachusetts, National Bank, is committed to his house by illness. The stockholders have voted to reduce the capital of the bank from $200,000 to $140,000, and continue business.

The New York Court of Appeals reversed the judgment of the lower court, and dismissed, with costs, the complaints against the Staten Island Railroad Company. These were the famous Westfield explosion cases.

The New York Democracy met in convention at Utica, yesterday, and spent the entire day in preliminaries. Nothing was accomplished beyond an organization, with Horatio Seymour as chairman, and the appointment of committees. The Tammany delegation was admitted and Apollo ousted, when the latter held a consultation and issued a protest against the corruption that had ruined them.

The Hamilton (Ohio) County Solicitor yesterday, on an order from the County Commissioners, commenced civil suit against Governor E. F. Noyes, to recover $13,326.55, which he drew from the county funds in 1868 and 1872, while Probate Judge of Hamilton county, in payment for making general indexes of books of his court, by order of the County Commissioners, and under contract with them. The petition does not allege violation of contract, but alleges that the contract was null and void, because the Commissioners made it without advertising and letting to the lowest bidder.

The whole number of claims submitted to the American and British Mixed Commission was 497; the claimants making reclamation in aggregate of the enormous sum of $55,000-000. Of these only 181 were allowed, the gross sum of which awards reaches $10,232.36.
It appears by an examination of the claims which were favorably considered, that awards were only made against the United States in cases where property was taken, used, or appropriated by the authority of the United States, and in cases of illegal imprisonment of British subjects during the late war.

EX-Secretary Cox has been elected President of the Toledo, Wabash and Western Railroad, which is a gratifying indication that brains and honesty are appreciated in great corporate enterprises, if not in the government.

Still the financial prospect improves.
Foreign Exchange is plentier than was supposed, and freights are better than could have been expected, on the seaboard, and if there is no release we may look for a fair fall business after all.

The public debt statement for September shows a heavy reduction of currency, there being only a little over three millions on hand, a sum not sufficient to pay the ordinary expenses more than a few days. The debt shows a reduction of $1,901,467 which is likely to be the last for some time.

The Tammany delegates to the New York State Democratic Convention at Utica yesterday were recognized as the regular representatives of the party, and the Apollo Hall men were invited out.
This made them mad and they sent in a very savage letter on the packing of the Credentia Committee, and general dishonesty of the body, which does not appear likely to conciliate a large amount of good feeling.

It is denied that Cardinal Bonnachasse has gone to Rome to arrange for the presence and offices of the Pope at the coronation of Count de Chambord as Henry V.
His mission has no connection with politics.
Although the chances appear to be decidedly in favor of the Royalists in the French confusion of politics, it is not so well assured but that an arrangement for the coronation of the head Bourbon would look much like counting chickens before they are hatched, and the denial is probably correct.

The revolting factions of Spain, if we may believe the reports, are going to pieces faster and faster every day. The insurgents of Cartagena are deserting to the Government lines, and report the forces terribly demoralized, insubordinate and hopeless, and a majority would surrender if the convicts, or galley slaves, who form a desperate element of the mass, did not overawe them. The Carlists are said to be equally disorganized and desperate in Lerida, and to maintain constant dissensions among themselves. Three of the most noted leaders are reported to have left their forces and gone to Bayonne.

SIR SAMUEL BAKER, after being several times immovably stopped by the difficulties of his Nile exploration, and repeatedly killed by the savage tribes along the banks, and occasionally made a prisoner and reduced to slavery, has got safely back to Cairo and started safely home to England.
Now we shall probably know what he really has done. The German savants, it is said, regard him as a humbug, and his discoveries as chimerical, but German savants though celebrated for knowledge have never been overloaded with wisdom, and the world will judge of the achievements of the great African explorer by what he tells of them. If he has tracked the White Nile to its sources he has done the big geographical feat of the age, unless somebody shall get to the North Pole soon, and all the carrying of all the pedants this side of the Styx won't affect his fame a moment.

The death of Colonel John H. Farquhar, though dreaded for a week as possible, and mourned for several days as inevitable, yet strikes the city with a feeling of surprise.
His active life had made his presence in business circles so constant that one could hardly believe that even sickness would keep him away. His genial manners and hearty affection for his friends made him a sort of necessity. And death disappoints both needs, and leaves us with the feeling that he has mistaken his victim. Colonel Farquhar was born in Maryland, in 1818, and was fifty-five years old at his death.
He came to this State when a lad of fifteen, and was for a time engaged as an engineer on the State public works. He then studied law and was admitted to the bar. In the old Whig days he was considered one of the ablest orators of that party, and was a candidate for Congress in 1852, against Colonel Jim Lane, of Kansas notoriety subsequently. He was beaten, of course, as Franklin and Dearborn counties in those days could have beaten twenty strong Whig counties. He was several times a Whig or Republican elector. During the war he was a Captain in the regular army, and chief mustering officer, for a time, in this city. He was elected to Congress once and served with efficiency and credit.
Some two or three years ago he removed to this city and became President of the Meridian National Bank, and held that position at his death.

The Cable announces the death of Sir Edwin Landseer, the celebrated animal painter, and member of the Royal Academy. He was about seventy years old, and for full fifty had held a foremost place among English artists. In his specialty, dogs, horses and deer, he had no rival in any country, and is best known by this class of production, though some of his more pretentious works yield place to none of this century. His father was an engraver, and frequently engraved his son's pictures. All his brothers were artists. By the judicious and sedulous instruction of his father he was made a real artist at fourteen, and in ten years was elected into the Academy, at the very lowest age to which admission is allowed. We need not specify any of his works, as they have all been engraved, and probably nobody has failed to see one or more of them. The identification of his genius with animal pictures, especially dogs, was made the provocation of a joke attributed to Sidney Smith. Landseer asked the witty Canon of St. Paul's to let him paint his (Smith's) portrait. Smith replied, "Is thy servant a dog that he should do this thing?" It was good but unauthentic. Lady Holland says it was "got up" by some London wag and put in the papers, and the artist and cler-gyman meeting each other shortly after, agreed to let it stand as told. Landseer was a contradiction of the popular notion that artists are ill paid. He made a large fortune by his pencil, being frequently paid as much as $15,000 for the right to en-grave a picture, over and above the price of the picture. He was a "cockney" by birth, coming into life "within the sound of Bow bells," but his numerous Scotch and Highland scenes have identified his fame with Scotland more than with his native kingdom.

Butter Panicky.
(Detroit Free Press.)
"Thirty-two cents!" echoed a woman yesterday when her grocer charged her that sum for a pound of butter. "Yes, 'um," he replied, with a bland smile. "You see the grocers can't carry much of a reserve, and we can't turn out our collaterals at a sacrifice. If the government calls in the bonds due in 1874, and the imports of bullion tend to ease the money market a little, butter must find its level with everything else.
Butter is very panicky just now, but I think the worst is over." She paid the money without further growling.

A wholesale verdict has been rendered as to throw a lady passenger from her seat and seriously injure her, and a jury has allowed her $15,000 damages.

Bonner says of the rumored agreement to sell Dexter: "There is not a word of truth in it. We mean to resist Dexter. He is a any horse is likely to buy him. Dexter has trotted a mile in 2:16, in presence of ten thousand people, and no other horse has ever trotted a mile as fast as this, except Mr. Bonner's young horse Joe Elliott. He has trotted in 2:15 1/2."

To His Locomotive.

By A. FANCIFUL ENGINEER.
My burnished beauty, how serene and still!
Like tired monster, harmless quite to kill.
Sleeping the dreamless sleep that follows toiling; Thou dost not art, as in the granite manger,
That not a thousand years doth serve to change.
But quickly kindles thy fierce heart of fire, And though thou art in veins the heat is stealing.
And wakening sighs and mutterings deep and dire Attest the fervent life thou dost conceal:
No granite-cave within thy bosom now, But fury like to devil's dreams, I trow.

I mind me of the Eastern legend taught In Nights Arabian, of the old enchantment Whereby Aladdin easy marvels wrought, By aid of Geni devilish but potent; As little striving doth it cause me to
To make the giant strength that lies in thee.
Thou fettered afloat, tamed to my command, I know how irksome 'tis to own a master,
And yield obedience to a human hand.
Now go! but gently! Faster now, and faster!
Then, if 'twill help to ease thy fettered state, Fourth one great shriek of rage and hate.
Away! away! The lightning's speed we take!
The bristling crags with thunderous echoes shiver!
The beasts afraid, with sudden tremblings quake!
The solid earth doth groan and bridges quiver!
Yet still thou art bound, and human skill avails Against thy will to keep thee on the rails.
What royal riding on what steed immense!
To manage thee doth sometimes kindly fancies: How grand, for instance, couldst thou kneel before us here!
To the far East—the land of old romance—Where ere before such vision ever passed, And set the trembling myriads all agast!

Or in the wilds of Africa, to see Astonished natives suddenly forsaking The grotesque fetiches, to bow to thee, Or hear barbaric kings—old idols breaking—Proclaim thee, with their foreheads to the sod, A pitiless, burnished, brazen-fronted god!
Or, dreaming still, how would the ancients crowd Thy glory, could they now behold thee speed!
Olympian nights would all of old renown; Imperial Jove, all other gods unbending, Before thy presence struck with mortal fears, Would hush their king of all the circling spheres.
But, vanish dreams! The darkness comes apace, The shades of starless night are round us falling; Thou borrowest now of gloom a sterner face,
And takest on an aspect more appalling.
The mouth of Hell could flash no fiercer stream Than from thy single, fiery eye doth gleam.
Ah well, my run is over at this station,
And wife and babies wait me at the door;
I dimly dread a day of tribulation, When they shall see, but I shall come no more.
Indeed, what right have we to human ties, Who daily ride on death in iron guise?

Natural Smugglers—Shopping Generally—Naughty Paris—The Coming Monarchy—That "Scrap"—Horse Opera—A Juggler Indeed, etc.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE EVENING NEWS.]
PARIS, August, 1873.

Speaking from a high plane of morality upon which none of us live, except when we want to criticize our neighbors, I have no hesitation in saying that man is a natural born smuggler. I speak generally, for the remark applies with fourteen fold force to women. Men occasionally will fear that it may not be exactly square to buy indiscrimi-nately in a foreign country and take the goods home without declaring them. It is may be from economy, more than from a moral sense. I can not say. But women have never a compunction about the matter.
I believe I never saw a woman on this side who would hesitate to buy out any goods establishment and show it away in her sara-lunga trunk, and go home without a hinting word of the purchase to a custom house officer—if her bank account would justify the expenditure. People, and especially female people, can not be made to see any impropriety in buying wherever they can buy cheap, even though they need for their consumption. Any interference on the part of government they regard impertinent, and will avoid it if they can. This feeling is so natural and universal that I find in it a natural argument for free trade, if such an expression may be used. The Secretary of the Treasury has seen fit to publish warning to all of us that we must quit our bad practices or pay for everything we buy, which is not for our "immediate personal comfort and convenience." We are told further that any fraud or "concealment" about the person or baggage of dutiable articles, such as presents and articles of vertu, will render such articles liable to confiscation, and the perpetrator shall also be visited by "other legal penalties." But we go on "Gallo like, caring for none of these things," and buy what we can afford to.

SHOPPING IN GENERAL.

I say so, for I have to confess that I have had the rare sensation of having gone shopping. How any one, man or woman, can look at a thing, in more than a passing way, that do come to like it, is proof of what habit may do in men and women. It is the old routine—"endure, then pity, then embrace." I suppose we could come to like castor oil, the bloomer costume, or poodle dogs, if compelled to have them every day for a time.

There are two ways of looking at shopping, one of which I am a great success, in the other an ignominious failure. The tradesman looks on me as a perfect shopper. I buy whatever he offers and pay whatever he asks. On the other hand, if compelled to look at a thing, in more than a passing way,
that do come to like it, is proof of what habit may do in men and women. It is the old routine—"endure, then pity, then embrace." I suppose we could come to like
castor oil, the bloomer costume, or poodle
dogs, if compelled to have them every day
for a time.

SHOPPING IN PARIS.

Paris has for centuries been the best place in the world to purchase ladies' articles of apparel, that nowhere can so deftly be made as here. I do not at all wonder at the delight a tasteful woman feels when in the "Magasin du Louvre" with a well filled purse. There is a creature with an instinct for self ornamentation. (I wish men had the same) and there finds fullest opportunity to supply herself with everything needful to outdo Solomon in all his glory. I wish I could see anything good in Paris except the things that I find myself ready to pity to wear. But I can not resist money for feet a dislike to Paris and the French that is made up of contempt and fear—contempt for a people so volatile, so outrageously defiant of consistency in patriotism, morals, or even common sense, and the indifference such a people may have upon the thousands of Americans who every year visit them.

THE COMING MONARCHY.

It is no idle thought that I speak. Think of a nation passionately and really a Republic, about to pass into an absolute monarchy, with a King "by divine right." That is France.
No one who is watching events here doubts that the Count de Chambord will be Henry V. over France within less than one year. Yet no one cares. It is time to change governments again, and a change there will be. After Henry V. has come the Prince Imperial as Napoleon IV, and then a Republic will follow him. Poor old M. Thiers is the only man in all the changing country who seems to know the meaning of liberty, and he is set aside. He will not change governments again, and a

PANIC.

During the excitement here in Financial Circles, on Thursday, September 25, we sold lots in the N. W. C. University Campus to the value of $46,000, to an Eastern Capitalist, who considers them a safer investment than stocks or bonds. During the month of September we sold $130,000 of the same property in addition.
There are still 25 of the choicest lots unsold, and we heartily recommend to any person who wants to get out of the panic, to buy one of these lots, with nothing to pay for five years except the annual interest of 4 per cent.
We also have a choice, east front lot in Woodruff Place for sale at the original price, $6,000, and on easy terms.

REVOLUTION IN CHAIRS.
We wish to call attention to our Perforated 3-Ply Veneer Chairs, Made by gluing Veneers together, so that the grain of each layer shall cross the grain of its neighbor. By this device we have an ornamental, comfortable and cleanly seat at about the cost of cane.
Introduced to the public less than one year ago, they have received the most flattering notice, not only from scientific bodies and experts, but the people with them with a hearty welcome, glad to find such a beautiful successor to the cane seat with its long list of objections.
These new and beautiful Chairs and Rockers need but to be seen to secure admiration. They are new, not only in appearance, but in plan and construction also. One piece of our three-ply Veneer forms the seat and back, which fit the person in the most acceptable manner. By this plan we secure unusual strength, as well as comfort and beauty, with the least possible weight of material.
Extract from Judge's Report at the Last Exhibition of the American Institute, held in the city of New York, October, 1872: "The Perforated Chair and Settee Bottoms are almost indestructible by ordinary use, and are cleaner, cooler and far superior to the cane seat and back bottoms. They are recommended for special mention or a special reward." Made only by the Warrants on the City Treasury are offered at a discount by those holding the same and in want of ready cash.

The Tinker street people are talking of running the block pavement from Delaware street to College avenue.

The Indiana Medical College opens up on the 14th instant. The prospect for a large attendance is quite flattering.

A special meeting of the City Council will be held this evening for the purpose of making some provision for the repatriation of the City Treasury.

The County Clerk's settlement with the County Treasurer yesterday for fines and docket fees during the month of September foots up $548.50.

Two hundred thousand dollars in currency was brought to this city yesterday by the Adams Express Company, and there were also heavy receipts by the other lines.

The lecture to-night at Masonic Hall, by Father De Bleeck, will be for the benefit of the Sisters of the Good Shepherd. Subject: "Expulsion of the Jesuits from Germany."

The Shaw & Lippincott Manufacturing Company have generously given all their workmen a holiday to-morrow to attend the Exposition, and have further provided them with tickets of admission. A good example.

William Mooney, a drunken stranger temporarily stopping at the Philadelphia House, at 11 A. M. to-day collided with a locomotive over in the Bloomington yards, which resulted in severe lacerations upon the head, but none of a dangerous or permanent nature.

The jury in the Jones vs. Hutton $10,000 damage suit, after being out five hours, brought in a verdict for the plaintiff for $800. This is the case in which the plaintiff brings action against his neighbor-in-law for enticing his wife to leave him without any just cause.

To-morrow has been set apart as a holiday by the Common Council for the citizens to attend the Exposition, and it should be pretty generally observed by those who have no other business. With the former case, however, it is different. The merchants and business men of this city have guaranteed important sums for the success of the Exposition, expecting to realize in return a large trade from the visitors. To-morrow, Friday, as well as Saturday, is always a good day for trade, and under the present stringency of times should not be overlooked.

FIRE.

Transfer Stables Burned—Loss, $2,500—

Also Destruction of Vending Property.

About ten last night an incendiary applied torch to the Indiana Transfer stables, on North street, near Central Tower, and but for the promptness of the Fire Department, more especially of the No. 10's, the city this morning would have realized the destruction of considerable property. The regular employees in the stable below were first alarmed by the peculiar crackling sound of the flames, and when discovered the fire was in the end fronting on Maryland, rapidly eating to the rear. The No. 10, red lads, almost next door, were out in a minute, made their way directly to the loft and threw a stream right into the center; a daring enterprise, which they were also out in a jiffy, and for an hour or more poured in such a deluge of water that the flames were beaten down and submerged within the limits where first started. All the live stock in the stables was removed in time, and without injury, and the principal loss is that of a quantity of straw and oats, and a large lot of damaged corn, estimated in value, together with the building, at $2,500.

Insured in the Home for $1,200, and the Hartford, of Connecticut, for $2,000. The incendiary stable door of Nichols and Whitney, out on Pearl street, of Allen and Whitney, unloaded in quick time, the suffocating smoke make making it necessary. Under the circumstances, the efforts of the department are deserving of great credit, and the water works also showed up with unusual vigor.

Later at night an incendiary also operated upon the stable belonging to Fred Velling, on McCarty, near Delaware, involving a loss of nearly $200.

The "Sisters' Concert.

A pleased audience listened to the concert at Masonic Hall last night. The program was a good one, classic and popular music being well balanced, with enough of the instrumental to prevent monotony. Miss Brado's solo was the gem of the evening; she possesses a voice of great compass and excellent quality, and she wins her audience by her quiet demeanor and absence of stagginess and striving for effect. Miss Ryan also sang a solo with her usual excellence. The choir of St. Paul's did themselves credit, and the same may be said of the other singers. Prof. Smith's violin solo, "Life let us Cherish!" touched a popular chord, and a repetition was demanded but not granted. Prof. Hertz played above the appreciation of the majority of the audience. When pianists learn that, except for a very select audience, something popular and easily understood is demanded, instead of musical acrobatics and legerdemain, people will chat less and listen better. Prof. Hertz's sins in this respect, however, were not scarier, if he won't do it any more.

A Youthful Incendiary.

Last Saturday the barn of Benjamin Charles on the Michigan road, was fired by some boys living in that neighborhood, but the flames were subdued before they had got under much headway. Yesterday, Officer Keefe arrested Martin Reeves on suspicion of being the incendiary, and this morning before the Mayor the boy acknowledged that he applied the match to the barn, but said that some large boys had incited him to do the act. When asked why he did it, he said "just for fun." The Mayor bound him over to await the action of the grand jury, but he was afterwards released on giving $500 bail, with his father as security. The boy is only eight years of age, and did not seem to fully realize the extent of the wrong which he has committed; perhaps not being of average brightness, the officers are making an effort to identify the boys who induced this young lad to act as an incendiary, and it is hoped that they also may be brought to speedy justice.

Confidence Game Spoiled.

Last evening as Officers Kimmiller and Smith were passing down South Meridian street they observed two suspicious looking characters in close conversation with an old gentleman whom they had cornered up in the rear of the Surgical Institute; the officers immediately suspected that these fellows were playing some confidence game on the old man, for upon their approach they both beat a hasty retreat and made good their escape. The timely appearance of the officers was fortunate for the old gentleman who was about to hand over his check to these sharpers who had so kindly offered to get his baggage which was at the depot awaiting transportation.
